> Very respectfully, yours, A Deserved Compliment.

In these days of official pompos my day for actual acreice has passed, yet the desire remains undiminished to see the people of Mississippi prosperous and happy and her fame not unlike the past, but gradually growing wider and brighter as years roll away. ity and arrogance, it is refreshing to reputation by his courtesy and politeness to all whom he comes in contact with. We pay this merited compliment to a gentleman who richly deserves every good word his friends can say in his behalf. This gentleman has also been suffered, all which has been lost, disappointed hopes and crushed aspirations, yet I deliberately say, if it were to do giver again, I would again do just as I did in 1861.
